The fermented K2 as MK7: key focus on MK7 purity

vitaMK7[®]
Natural vitamin k2 as MK7

Gnosis has been a pioneer in vitamin K2 as MK7: from the first development to the industrial manufacturing of natural all-trans MK7, Gnosis has simply learned from nature how to create a proprietary fermentation-derived method of production based on Bacillus subtilis natto, used for hundreds of years by the Japanese people in natto food. The method merges history, science and technology, a warranty of reliability and purity profile, today not achievable by any other player on the marketplace.

Long-term clinical recognition of the key benefits of natural-enriched K2 foods has been the engine to define the fermentative production of MK7.

Nowadays, the fermentation and chemical production of menaquinone-7 coexists, but - excluding guesswork and marketing speculation - a fermentative process from Bacillus subtilis is the first choice. On the contrary, the synthetic process includes a series of unpleasant disadvantages.

vitaMK7® is the natural fermented, pure and all-trans K2 as MK7. It shows the highest content of all-trans MK7, more than 99% higher than the synthetic ones, which are characterized by a relevant percentage of cis analogs and unnatural impurities.

The more the product is pure, the more it is stable; thanks to the clean profile, vitaMK7® shows an optimal stability in formulation even when subjected to stressed conditions.
